TOTTERIDGE PROVIDES THE "WOW" FACTOR

Golf is a highly social game. It provides enjoyment and memories. Bringing people together for golf can provide a sustainable means of raising funds for charitable causes. Businesses seek opportunities to gather customers together to express appreciation. Golf provides a perfect venue. Friends gather to celebrate reunions or to host wedding parties. Golf leagues seek great courses for mid-year or year-end events. But sometimes you just want to spend time with a group of friends. Whatever is your reason, you can "wow" your group at Totteridge.

WHY TOTTERIDGE

Built on a spectacular tract of historic farmland northeast of Greensburg in Westmoreland County, TOTTERIDGE golf course opened in 2001. It is the creation of renowned golf architect Rees Jones in collaboration with his friend Tom Tanto, this 7154-yard links-style layout traverses 270 acres of dramatic hills and valleys and provides sweeping views of the western Pennsylvania countryside.

TOTTERIDGE design and character were dictated by the raw land contours. Natural elements were embellished and created elements were made to look natural. With 200 feet of elevation change, the visual impact of every golf hole from the tee is an adventure for the senses. The course provides a strong but fair test of golf. With five sets of tees the course is enjoyable for all skill levels. Outstanding course conditioning is provided daily by Course Superintendent Jeremy Roach and his dedicated staff.

TOTTERIDGE has the region's best practice facility with a separate area dedicated to driving, short game practice, chipping, putting and sand shots. At the clubhouse there is an all-day dining sports bar to seat up to 72 persons, a private party tent with a capacity of 144 persons, buffet dinner menus and beverage cart services. The golf staff, led by PGA Director of Golf Brian Klocek, works with event organizers to assure that all needs and budgets are satisfied beyond expectations.
